'81-'85 special years for class

There are some things that all of you seniors will remember, no matter where you are:

* The first rally when the class sat through "The Green and the Gold."
* The relief when the class finally became upperclassmen and they, at last, turned over to the incoming freshmen the insecurity and inferiority they no longer were going to feel.
* What about all the teams that almost became and did become league champions?
* Grad Nite at Disneyland.
* Receiving a diploma on graduation night, June 13, 1985.
* Saying goodbye to all your friends who shared the good and bad times throughout the years.

1. In her challenging Computers class, Wendy Hopper becomes familiar with the Apple IIe.
2. Seniors Kim Rocha and Denise Yeager try to stay dry during the rainy weather.
3. The infant shown here in early training wore No. 45 last fall. The photo was donated by his mother.
4. With a cheesy smile, you can tell Robert Manfredi is enjoying his Civics class.
5. Well-known socialites discuss weekend activities.
6. Joey Ellberg and Geoff Belau show they have talent other than music.
7. Rochelle Delgado finds the library a quiet place to complete unfinished assignments.

Young Life offers festive Tuesday evenings

The purpose of Young Life meetings were to "provide a relaxed and informal atmosphere where kids could come and have fun with their friends and begin to find answers to the questions they have about life," according to one of the Young Life leaders, Jane Thompsen.

Weekly meetings were held in the old Dodge garage on Draper Street, with an average attendance of 120 students.

Among the club's activities this year were a trip to Hume Lake for a weekend camp and a week of skiing in Utah. 45 people from Kingsburg attended these trips and took part in an 8-hour work day to raise money for the expenses.

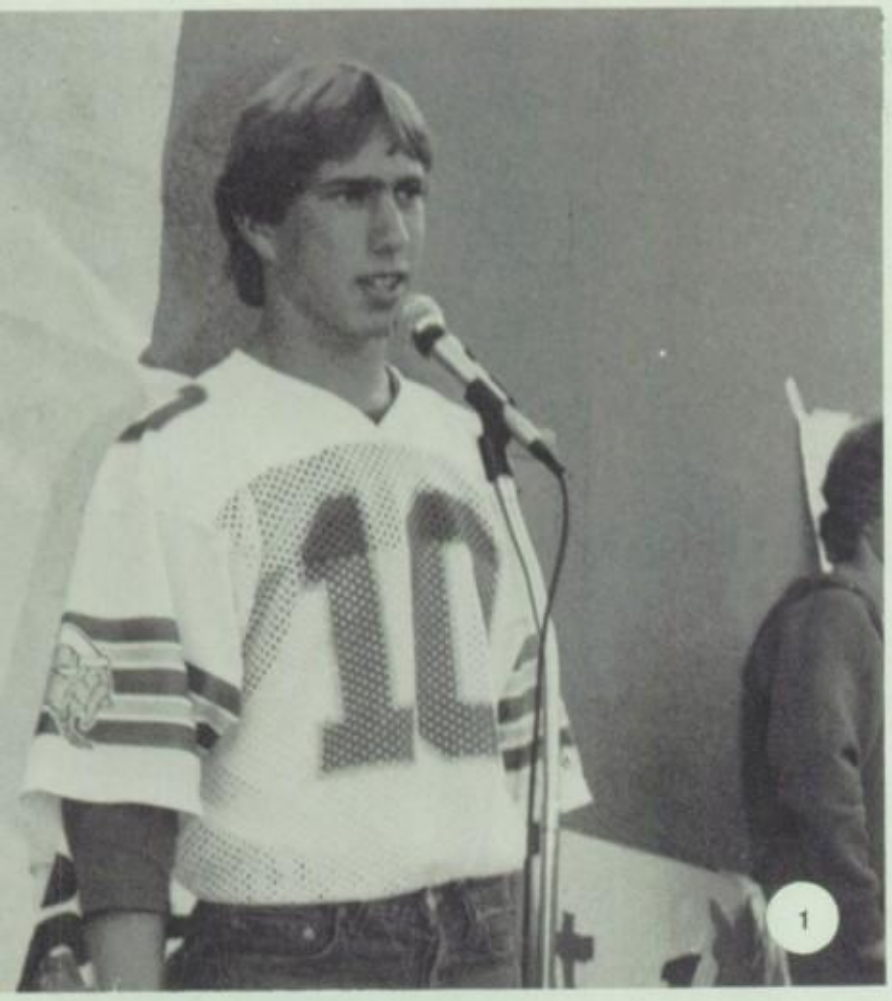
2. Keri Weaver finds amusement in a skit.
3. Upperclassmen pile in for fun.

School spirit lifted by enthusiastic crowds



Rally responsibilities were shared between the Pep Squad and the Student Council. This combination resulted in more eventful, action-packed rallies than in the past. They were complete with yelling and relay competitions among the classes, skits by the Student Council and various routines by the Pep Squad. Vice President Mike Dodson was particularly impressed with the competitiveness of the freshman class.

The annual downtown rally was held for a playoff game against Garces, rather than our rival the Selma Bears. Instead, an old tradition was revived for a memorable rally. The night before the big game a large group of supporters gathered across the street from the high school. The vacant lot was donated by John and Eileen Dodson. For a follow-up rally, students gathered in the quad after school to give the team last-minute inspiration.

Participation critical to Homecoming

Student participation was a great factor in making Homecoming week a success.

For dress-up days freshmen chose to be little kids, sophomores were superheros, juniors were nerds and seniors were career-oriented. Student Council blinded everyone with ugly tie for Friday. Everyone was able to cream their favorite queen Friday at lunch. Friday night the Vikings creamed Memorial.

Hypnotist takes students on mind journeys

Mae West, Buckwheat, Steve Perry and Eddie Murphy were all there. The event was the annual hypnotist show given by Jack Lythgoe.

During the course of the show, Lythgoe regressed some of his volunteers to the first grade and took some forward to the age of 65.

Jack Lythgoe has been hypnotizing KHS students for about 20 years. Activities Director Joe O'Donnell said, "The hypnotist is one of our most interesting assemblies."

Student Council strives for something new

Under the supervision of Adviser Joe O'Donnell, the '84-'85 Student Council tried to develop school participation and school spirit at KHS.

"It's important for each class to be treated equally and participate equally in all of the school activities," said Student Body Vice President Mike Dodson.

Throughout the year, the council members spent many hours together trying to solve problems and plan events. When looking back on the year, Herrera referred to the group as "one big happy family."

The council was very active in the spirit rallies this year. They also served the community by helping elderly people with yardwork and they collected canned foods for needy families.

Exchange students blend into America

Paula Seppala had no fears of coming to Kingsburg. "The people are friendly here," she said. Compared to her hometown, Eurojoki, Finland, Kingsburg is a lot bigger.

The 17-year-old Seppala is staying with Kingsburg Chief of Police Jim Taylor's family.

She was involved in Student Council, Art Club, and planned to compete in track.

1. Paula Seppala enjoyed Kingsburg High School.
2. Dieter Rodewald, Paula Seppala and Pedro Luna pose for picture.
3. Pedro Luna enjoyed playing varsity football.
4. Pedro and Dieter clown around at Christmas Rally.
5. Paula made many friends while at KHS.

Junior Pedro Luna said that he hopes to be able to come back next year to complete his education, but he doesn't know if he will be able to through the student exchange program.

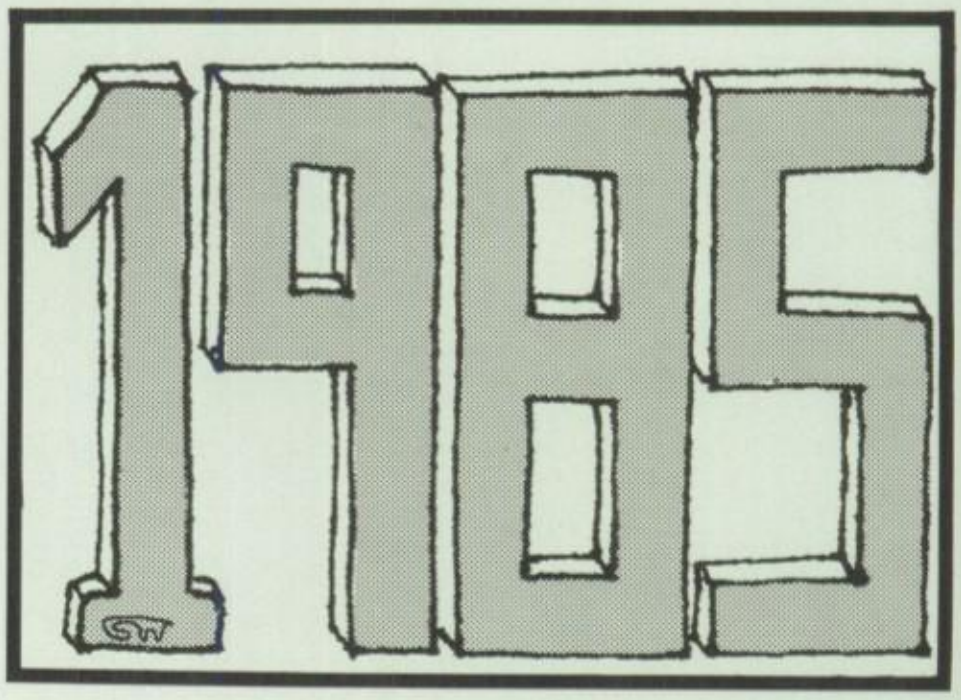
He is staying with the Mark Woods family. Originally from Monterey, Mexico, he says Kingsburg is a lot smaller than his hometown which has a population over one million people.

Pedro played varsity football, soccer, and baseball. He was also involved in 4-H.

17-year-old Dieter Rodewald is staying with the Larry Lungren family. From Gorosshansdorg, West Germany, he says that Kingsburg is very different than his hometown. Gorosshansdorg has no forest around or nearby it. Also, it is more widespread. Dieter played varisty football, soccer, and tennis. He was also involved in 4-H.

Historic events mark '84-'85 school year

The events of each year make it unique from the years before, and 1985 was no exception. Among many other things, the XXIII Summer Olympics, the presidential election, and efforts to help those in need made America stand out from other countries.



NATIONAL

Former Vice President Walter Mondale was nominated by the Democratic Party as their candidate for the presidency. He defeated Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson for the nomination. Mondale's running mate was Geraldine Ferraro, the first woman to run on a presidential ticket.

Carrying 49 states, Ronald Reagan gained reelection by a historic landslide. As before, his running mate was George Bush. Reagan was sworn into office on Jan. 21, 1985.

With the slogan, "Keep the torch lit," the nation teamed together by sending donations to refurbish the Statue of Liberty. The hope was to accomplish this task before the statue's centennial in 1986.

Postage stamp prices once again increased. This time from 20 cents up to 22 cents.

WORLD

The Soviet Union saw another of its leaders die in March. Konstantin Chernenko, who served as general-secretary for one year, died of emphysema and complications. He was replaced by Mikhail Gorbachev, 54.

As the prolonged draught spread across Africa, nations around the world offered their help by donating food and hope. Band-Aid, a special group of today's British musicians, helped by sending all the profits they made when they cut a record during the Christmas season. American and Canadian musicians also made efforts similar to those of Band-Aid.

India's prime minister, Indira Ghandi, was assasinated by her Sikh bodyguards. One day prior to her murder, Ghandi stated, "If I die today, every drop of my blood will invigorate the nation."

In Great Britian, the Irish Republican Army (IRA) claimed responsibility for an assasination attempt on British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. Thatcher escaped the bombing at the hotel in which she was staying without injury.

On a lighter side, another son was born to Princess Diana and Prince Charles of Wales. Upon his birth, Prince Henry Charles Albert David became the third in line of succession to the royal throne. Preceding him is his father and older brother, William.

MEDICAL

New life-prolonging breakthroughs were made in the medical field this year. When "Baby Fae" received the first implant of a baboon heart, the transplant inspired both amazement and criticism.

For the second time in history, a human heart was replaced by a machine. William Schroeder received his artificial heart Nov. 25. At press time he was doing well.

ENTERTAINMENT

The main television networks this past year premiered movies which discussed sensitive topics such as child abuse, drug addiction, homosexuality, incest, rape and suicide.

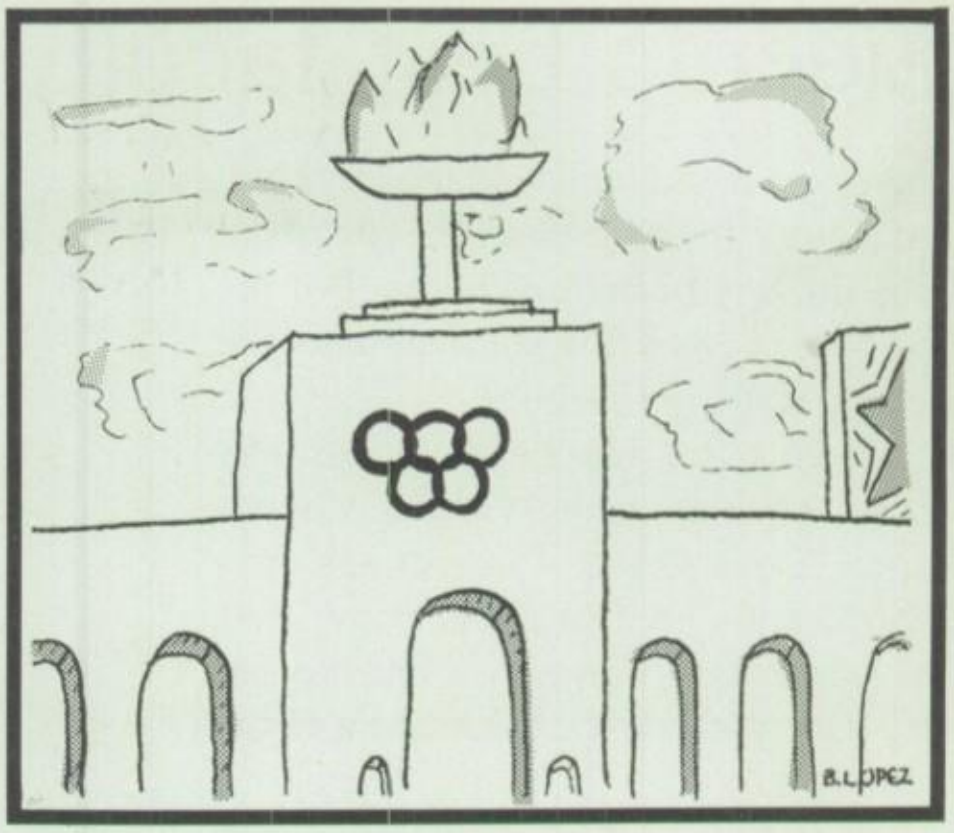
A new rating was applied to motion pictures. PG-13 was added in the hopes of keeping out some of the violence in PG movies.

Trivial Pursuit was a new board game which became very popular with old and young alike.

As of this year, cable TV was available to all Kingsburg residents, within city limits.

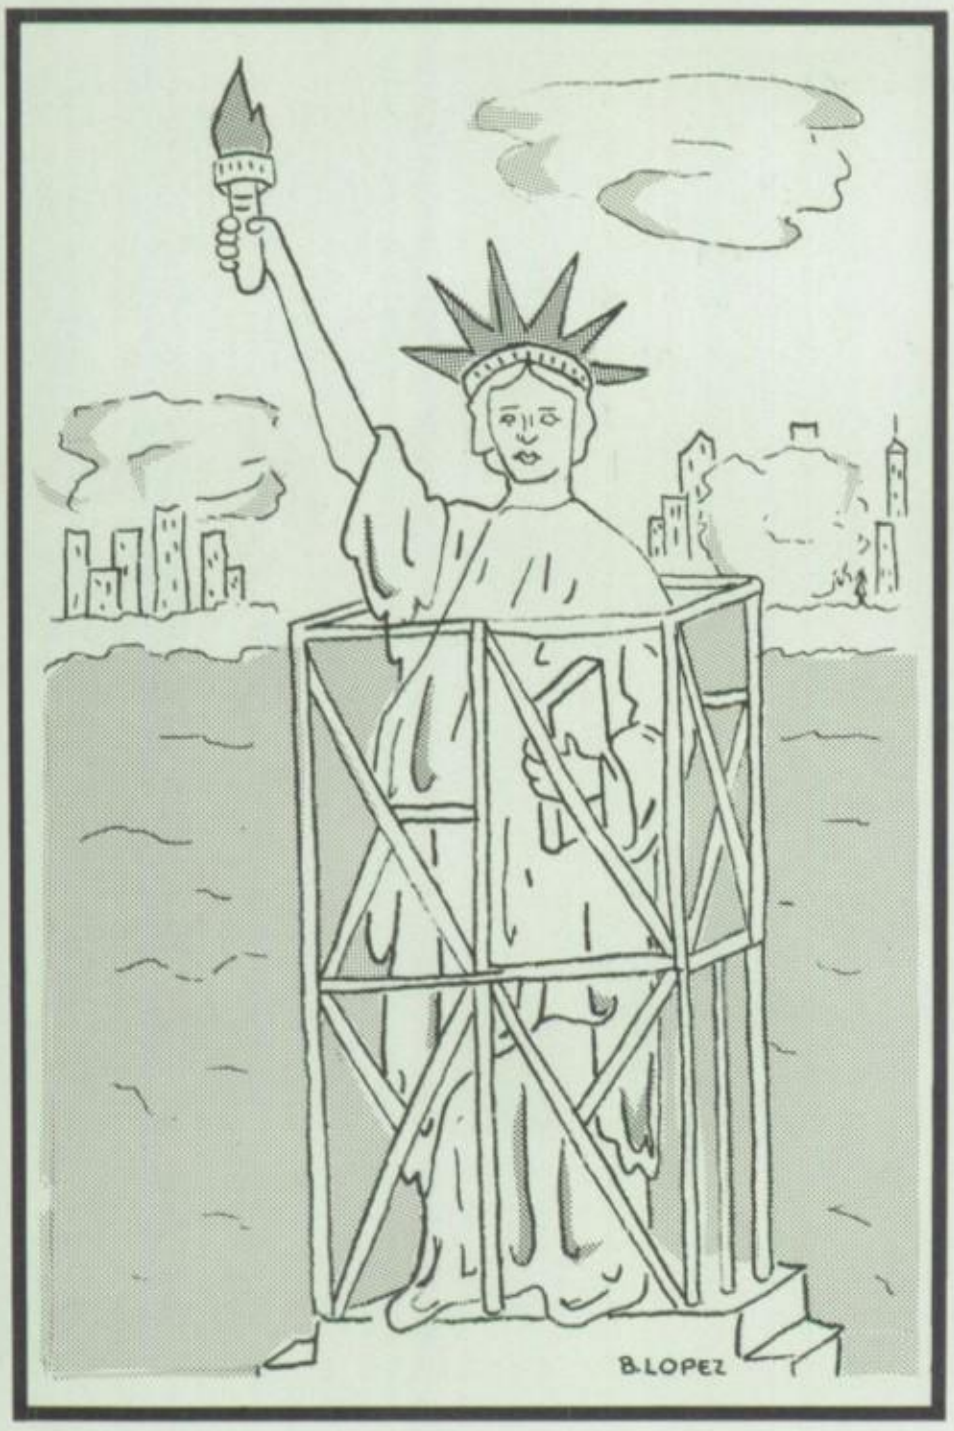
SPORTS

The XXIII Summer Olympics renewed patriotism to our country. Despite boycotts by a number of countries, including Russia, the splendor and excitement of the Los Angeles Olympics was enhanced by the fine performances of some talented athletes and the hard work of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, led by Peter Uberroth.



In the field of baseball, the World Series was once again the highlight of the year when the Detroit Tigers defeated the San Diego Padres, four games to two.

The San Francisco 49ers became the Super Bowl XIX champions when they crushed the Miami Dolphins in a 38-16 victory.



Students beat faculty in donkey basketball

On Feb. 3, students and teachers battled it out in the KHS gym, the site of the 1985 donkey basketball game. For the first time in years, the students were the victors, not the teachers.

Heading the teachers' squad was Tom DeMaris, Javier Garcia, Charles Parker, Dave Peters, Paul Rogers, Ron Schmid and Jim Yates. Jeff Bray, Julie Danielson, Lisa Lungren, Cindi Vargas and Gary Webb were the leaders of the student team.

Again this year, two games were played. In the first game, the frosh-soph team was defeated by the junior-senior team. In the second game, the teachers were defeated by the students, 14-10.

This year, the game raised approximately $500.

"I enjoy working with top students who want to develop their mental and speaking ability," said Adviser John Seaman.

Students involved in mock trial learn legal techniques and also learn the importance of proper communication and the ability to listen and speak using sound arguments.

This year's team did not make it to the finals, but Lejf Knutson was named the 1985 Outstanding Counsel (Lawyer) for Fresno County. Seaman felt Knutson's performance was "especially impressive."

Many outrageous fads cover KHS campus

Throughout the decades, teen-agers have always based their lives on fads, and this year that hasn't changed.

Grandpa's old sweaters, grandma's old shoes, Guess products, and a rainbow of fluorescent colors dominated the campus.

An outfit wouldn't be quite complete without the perfect hair style. Bobs, Weller cuts, shaved heads, bi-levels, and cellophaned hair.

Who knows what the future will bring? But it's sure to be outrageous!

Students Against Driving Drunk was a new organization on at KHS this year. "I just hate to see useless deaths," Adviser Linda Clark said.

The main goals of S.A.D.D. this year were to eliminate the drunk driver and save lives, conduct community alcohol awareness, alert students of the dangers of alcohol and drinking, and organize a peer counseling program.

The idea of having a S.A.D.D. organization on campus was brought up by junior Connie Hernandez.

1. Members of S.A.D.D. listen with interest.
2. Gail Nakamura enjoyed S.A.D.D. meetings.

Rally adds spice to Christmas season

This year's Christmas rally had a couple of memorable events. In one, Santa (Darren Badiou) was tackled by a devoted fan (Scott Reeder) who insisted he should have sunglasses for Christmas so he could be like Tom Henslee.

In the other, Lisa Bankston entertained the crowd with a solo as the choir backed her up.

Among the choir's selection for songs to sing was the traditional "Silent Night," in which attenders of the Christmas Rally were to join in and sing along with the choir.

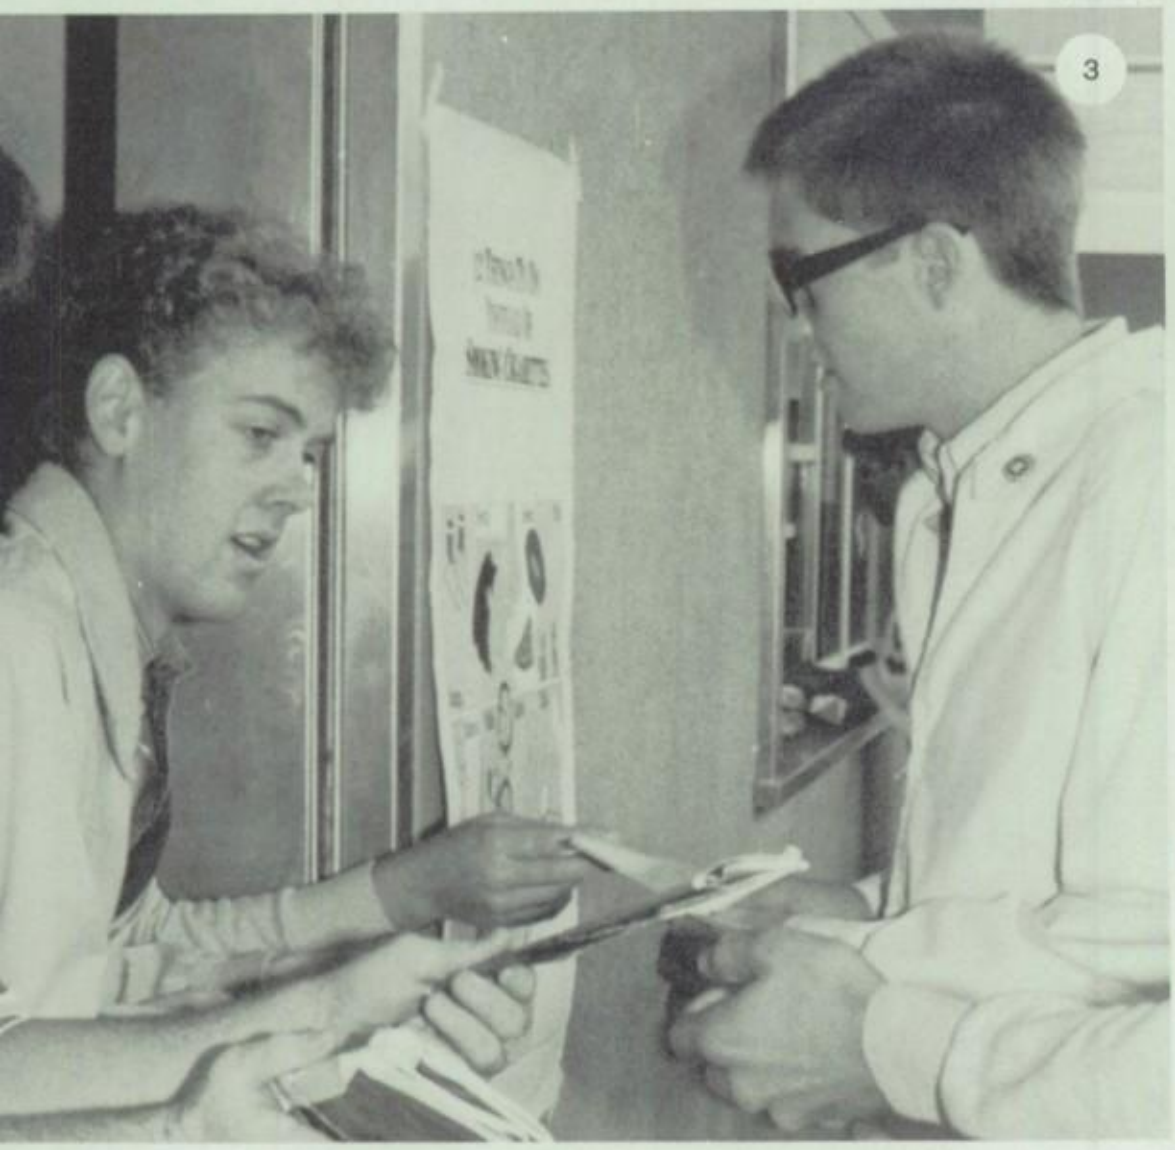
Smoke Out attracts student participation

Considering that this was Kingsburg High School's first year participating in the Great American Smoke Out it came off as a success. "There was a lot of student envolvement," adviser JoAnne Kulbeth stated.

The day consisted of 24 hours of people throughout the nation struggling to try to quit smoking.

Sophomore Debbie Schoonover turned in the most pledges and was presented a trophy by 96 FM's "Totally Unreal" Rick McNeal.

Among the people that turned in pledge sheets were Schoonover, senior Shelli Mowrey and junior Tama Dooley.



1. Junior Jeff Taylor gets a kick out of what's in the bag.
2. Student participation is important.
3. Student Council members take charge.

Fundraisers produce organizations' income

Fundraisers have always been a major source of income for various clubs and organizations on campus. This year they raised their money by selling candy bars, candy grams, spirit ribbons, suckers and many other items. FFA started a new fundraiser by selling balloons on Valentine's Day.

Fundraisers allow clubs and organizations to take annual trips, hold year-end banquets, start and complete special projects and update the equipment for their area.

1. Julie Danielson sells beef jerky to help her organization.
2. FFA members sell balloons for Valentine's Day.
3. Concessions were a major source of groups' money.
4. Selling suckers helped take Home Ec. members to San Francisco.

Problems solved in Conflict Management

Throughout the year the Conflict Management team devoted their time to helping students resolve their problems before they became major ones.

Each member of Conflict Management was chosen by faculty and staff members based on their leadership qualities and their concern for other students. Adviser Ned Polenz said that the members of the team learn to communicate with other students, but most of all they learn to become better listeners.

Although Conflict Management has only been at KHS for five years, it has improved students outlook and morale.

1. CONFLICT MANAGEMENT - Front row: Carla Baker and Tricia Underwood. Middle row: Richard Ramirez, Robin Scroggins, Bernadette Lopez, Robert Campos, Stephanie Johnson, Rochelle Delgado, Erin Wilson, Rosa Ybarra and Sergio Herrera. Another league title for varsity football

This year the Vikes went all the way to the valley semifinals, after defeating the Garces Rams from Bakersfield. Then the Vikes were shut down by an extremely talented Dos Palos squad.

1984 football season under head coach Mike Newell was a fruitful one. The Vikings tied for the CSL league championship, with a 10-2 record overall, 4-1 in league play. The Vikes' only loss coming from their rivals, the Selma Bears.

The starting line for the Vikings was made up of four seniors, Darren Badiou, Mike Hansen, Rick Jackson, and Doug White, and sophomore Bill Jackson. Newell feels that they were not big but they were quick enough to get the job done. The defensive line basically consisted of the same people. The running game for the Vikes was held by junior Ron Steele who rushed for 989 yards on 156 carries, with an average of 6.3 yards per carry. Dale Prinz, Sean Yarr and Jose Mendoza had good seasons as well.

Newell said that the passing duties were held up very well by Mike Dodson. "He accomplished the things we were trying to do with our offense," he said.

Jeff Swenning was leading receiver, 37 catches for 848 yards with an average of 22.8 per catch. Randy Gardner and Richard Ramirez combined for 430 yards for the year.

Norsemen, Cubs tie for league crown

At the beginning of the year Norseman football coach Jerry Rosser noted the 1984 team had potential for a 10-0 season. "We came close to reaching our goal we set at the beginning of the year." The team ended up 9-1 with a loss to Selma.

This year's leading receiver was Mike O'Reilly, catching 12 passes for 278 yards and averaging 23.6 a catch. O'Reilly also lead the team in scoring 12 touchdowns. The quarterback duties were handled by Kyle Sedra, who threw 122 passes and completed 53 of them for 975 yards. Sedra received the Norseman most valuable player award. Working in the offensive trenches for the Norsemen were tackles Lee Fry and Brent Riffel. Guards were Mike Callison and Robbie Hutchison. The center for the Norsemen was Joe Bray. The most valuable offensive lineman was Fry. Leading the team in rushing was Mike Sanchez. Sanchez rushed 89 times for a gain of 714 yards and scored seven touchdowns. Sanchez was named the most valuable offensive back.

Defensively, the Norsemen were very physical. The Norsemen punted only 17 times, while forcing their opponents to punt 42 times. Mark Woods, who had seven interceptions, was named most valuable defensive back. Hutchison was selected as the most valuable defensive lineman.

The other players honored with awards were Tracy Weathers, most improved; Peter Ramirez, most inspirational; and the team captain was Brad Johnson.

Injuries take a drastic toll on league record

The varsity volleyball team had a disappointing but fun year. Due to injuries to key players, the team was forced to move around a lot and bring up players from the junior varsity ranks.

In Coach Roche Nystrom's opinion, the team molded together very well. Helpful additions to the team were Nancy Doi, Marilu McIntyre, Gail Nakamura and Erin Wilson.

With a nonleague record of 4-2 and a league record of 7-8, the Vikettes finished fourth in league, coming very close to a playoff berth.

Honors this year went to Rochelle Delgado, MVP; Marilu McIntyre, most inspirational; and Stephanie Johnson, best hitter. Johnson was also an all-league first team selection. Best setter went to Rise Delgado and Nancy Doi was most improved. Wendy Hopper and Erin Wilson each earned all-league honorable mentions.

New coach leads team to winning year

This year's new coach for JV volleyball was Leslie Lindquist. "The girls exceeded the goals I set for this year's team," Lindquist said. "At the beginning of the season I just wanted the girls to have fun and to do the best they could," she said, "but we had fun and won too."

The team ended with eight wins and two losses. The two losses were to Selma.

This year's MVP was freshman Becky Hopper. She was also one of the best servers on the team. The best hitter on the team was sophomore Mandy Hopper. Best setter was sophomore Tracie Clem. The most inspirational player on this year's team was freshman Kelly Barnes. The player showing the most improvement over the season was sophomore Lainie Morris. The team captain for this year's team was sophomore Kathy Guerra.

Coach Lindquist said she enjoyed coaching the girls this year. "It was a great experience," she said.

Boys' varsity enjoys good year on court

As of press time, the boys' varsity basketball team was in a battle for second place and had a good shot at the valley playoffs.

Returning players were seniors Darren Badiou, Jeff Bray, Mike Dodson, Randy Gardner, Scott Reeder, Jeff Swenning, Walt Wickham and junior Ron Steele.

"The team has improved throughout the year with good team play and good bench play," Coach George McKean said.

Looking at the overall year, McKean felt that the team was good on its outside game, with the help from Vince Scheidt, Henslee and Wickham, who usually had a hot hand.

McKean felt that the team was pretty big this year which helped the inside game.

"When we go up against a top valley-ranked team like Washington Union, you really need a tough inside and outside game," McKean said.

Leading scorers and rebounders for the Vikes were Swenning and Wickham.

Experience assists Norseman basketball

The goal of the junior varsity basketball team was "to be a contender in league competition this year," according to Coach Kevin Olson. The team ended up 6-3 in league and 10-8 in overall play with one game remaining in the season. Lack of execution was the only factor keeping this experienced team from topping the list of final standings.

Olson used outside shooting, led by sophomore Mark Woods, to work the ball inside where he enjoyed a team with bigger-than-average size. Center Brad Johnson, 6'3", was a relentless force inside where he never quit working. Kyle Sedra, defensive specialist, was another standout because of his effectiveness in taking the ball to the basket. Olson was also impressed with newcomer Mike O'Reilly because he was quick and precise with his ball handling and excelled in applying pressure on the defense.

The Norsemen put forth their best efforts against quality teams, beating Bullard to take third place in the Washington Tournament, winning two games against Memorial, and losing a three-point decision to Washington, the league champion.

Girls make history reaching CIF playoffs

For the first time in KHS history, the girls' basketball team went to the playoffs, led by senior point guard Rochelle Delgado, who was the heart of the squad, and Stephanie Johnson, the team's leading rebounder and scorer.

Under first-year coach Sonny Festejo, the Vikettes improved over last year's 0-12 league record season.

According to the coach, the team had a great attitude. "They try to do everything I ask them to do, whenever physically possible," he said.

Returning to the squad this year were Rochelle Delgado, Johnson, Karin Rocker, Laurie Rocker and Trisha Smothers. Newcomers included Rise Delgado, Rochelle Ford and Chris Sellers.

Returners support Norsewoman squad

With returners like Tracie Clem, Sarah Montross, Lainie Morris, Sharon Steele and Becky Vargas the girls' JV basketball team was off to a good start.

"The team improved a lot over the past year," said Coach Craig Barton. He also felt that it was hard for a guy to coach girls because they are "unpredictable."

Barton said that nobody really stood out on the team, they all were even. However, he singled out Becky and Heather Vargas as the most improved players on the team. He also felt that Kelly Barnes "improved really quickly."

Wrestlers take first in league performance

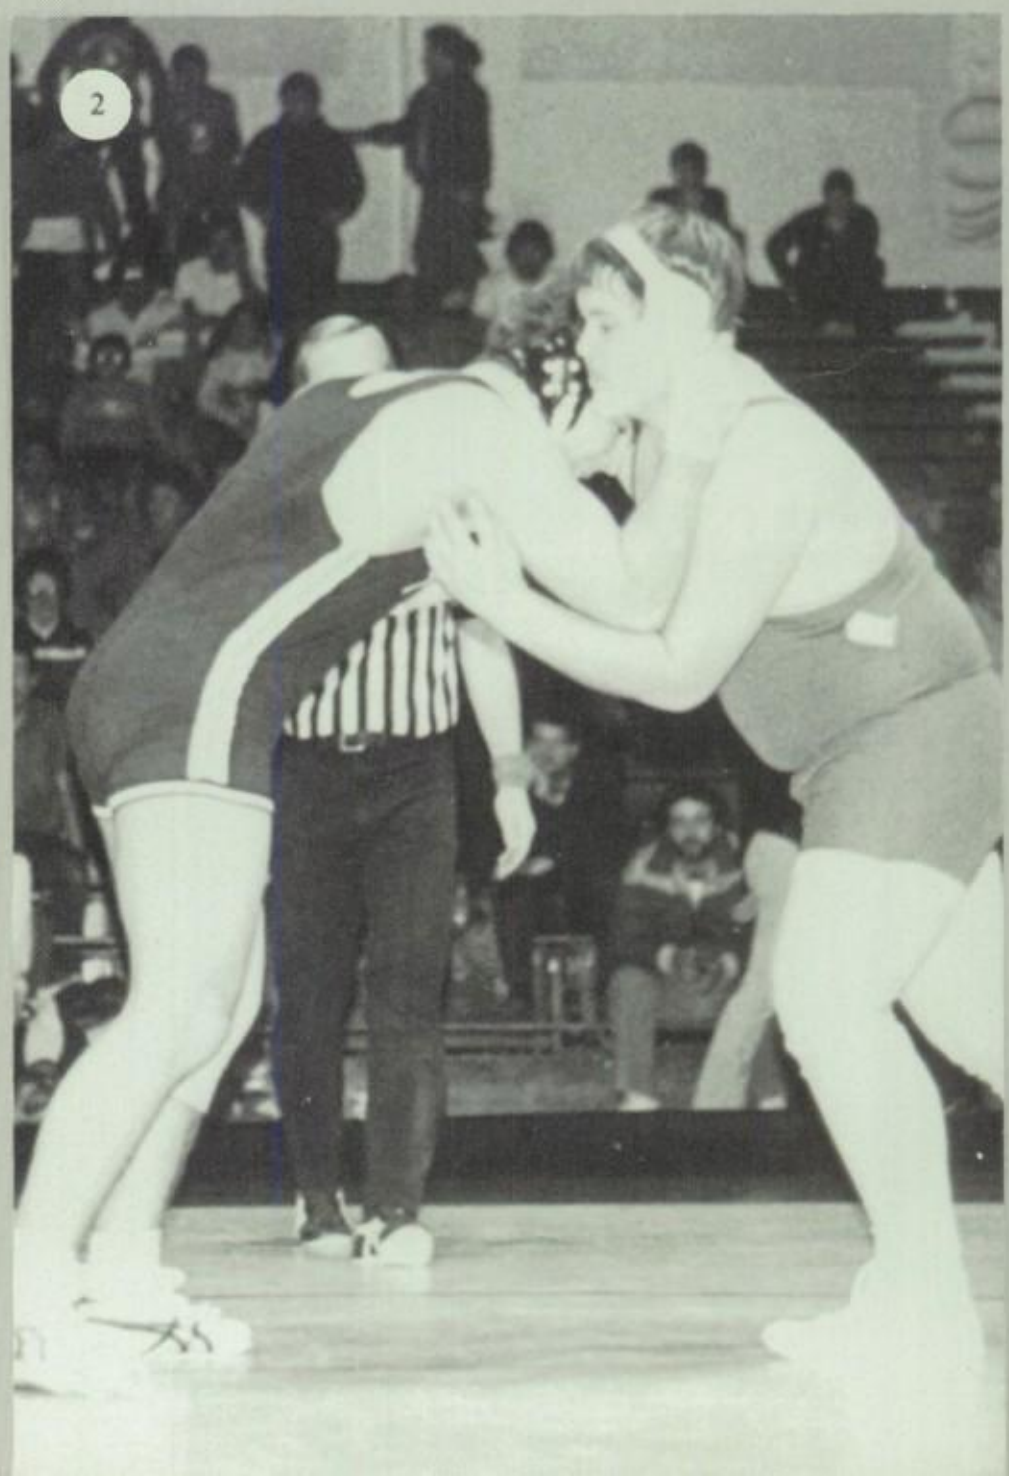
At the beginning of the season, Coach Sam Crandell sat down with his varsity wrestlers and set goals. The goals were to be in first place going into the league tournament. Crandell and the 1985 varsity wrestlers reached that goal and went into the league tournament in first place, winning all matches except the first match with Selma.

Some of the leaders for this 1985 team were Rick Jackson, with a record of 16-1-1; Mark Lewis, who had a record of 13-8; Steve Mendoza, who went 12-5; and Doug White, who went 12-4-1. These leaders were all seniors.

Some of the wrestlers that improved more than others were Nacho Hurtado, Bill Jackson and Scott Wright.

Finishing first at the league tournament were Bill Jackson, Rick Jackson and Richard Ramirez. Second place was won by Nacho Hurtado, Jose Mendoza, David White, and Doug White. Seven other wrestlers finished third and also went to divisionals.

Two matches that really stick out in Crandell's memory would be when the team beat Selma when Bill Jackson won the last match. The other match would be when KHS beat Washington in the second round.



1. Elated wrestlers and fans sworm over Bill Jackson as his pin over Washington's heavyweight clinches league title.
2. Heavyweight Bill Jackson works on take-down.

JV wrestlers show great potential for future

At the beginning of the 1985 junior varsity wrestling season, Coach Tom DeMaris wanted to have a successful season and prepare the junior varsity boys for varsity competition.

Two leaders for this year's team were Sergio Herrera and Jason Brooks. They both had very successful seasons. Some of this year's wrestlers who had an especially good season and are expected to do well in the future were John Herrera, Scott Johnson, Danny Nelson, Rex Noel, Matthew Woods and David Vart.

New soccer team adds kicks to athletics

For a first-year establishment, Kingsburg High's soccer team did an excellent job. They came in second in league and went to the playoffs, losing in the first round to Hoover, 4-0.

"We had a successful and fun time this year," Coach Javier Garcia said. "I really enjoyed it."

The league opponents consisted of Yosemite, Chowchilla and Sierra. Yosemite took first in league.

Robert Campos and Tim Burnett were the Viking goalkeepers. The usual high scorer for Kingsburg was foreign exchange student Pedro Luna. KHS's defensive specialist was Dieter Rodewald, another exchange student.

Experience key to softball squad's success

Knowing that they were last year's champion team only made the KHS softball team go all out to defend their title.

Dawnette Barnes, Tammy Barnes, Lisa Borba, Rise Delgado, Rochelle Delgado, Kathy Guerra, Mandy Hopper, Wendy Hopper, Suzette Magnuson, Wendy Oliver, Lorraine Rocha and Katie Vargas return from the illustrious 1984 CSL and valley champion team.

At the beginning of the season, Coach Al Mainord had every reason to believe that the team would win the CSL title and possibly be the 1985 valley champions.

"When you only lose one player, it's hard not to think that you'll repeat your performance," Mainord said.

Mainord enjoyed working with the caliber of athletes on the team. He felt they were "top-notch students and also excellent athletes."

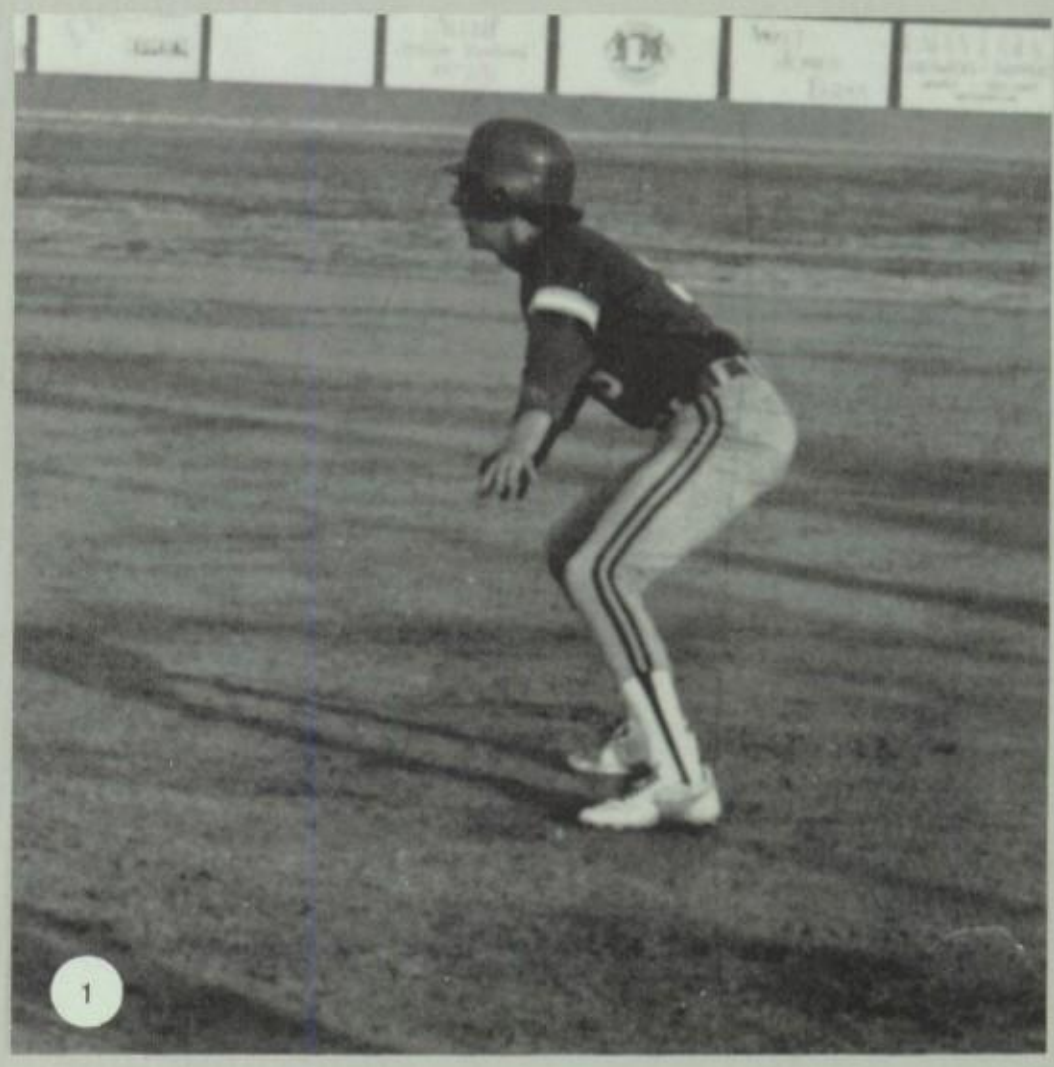
Experience main advantage to varsity team

This year's varsity baseball team "had the potential to be a team and play as a team," said Coach Jerry Rosser.

Many promising players advanced from the junior varsity squad to make this year's varsity team complete. The players were Scott Hansen, Danny Nelson, Mike Sanchez, Kyle Sedra and David Silva.

The returning seniors who gave the team experience and leadership were Darren Badiou, Rick Carender, Peter Grandal, Ron Henslee, Sergio Herrera, Marty Lopez, Richard Ramirez, Walt Wickham and Ron Wilson.

Although Coach Rosser did not use any new techniques in coaching this year's team, he relied on the past experience of two of his key players, Badiou and Wickham. Badiou played third base and also caught. Wickham pitched and played first base. Grandal was a key performer, playing center field and batting third in the order.



1. Senior Rick Carender leads off first base.

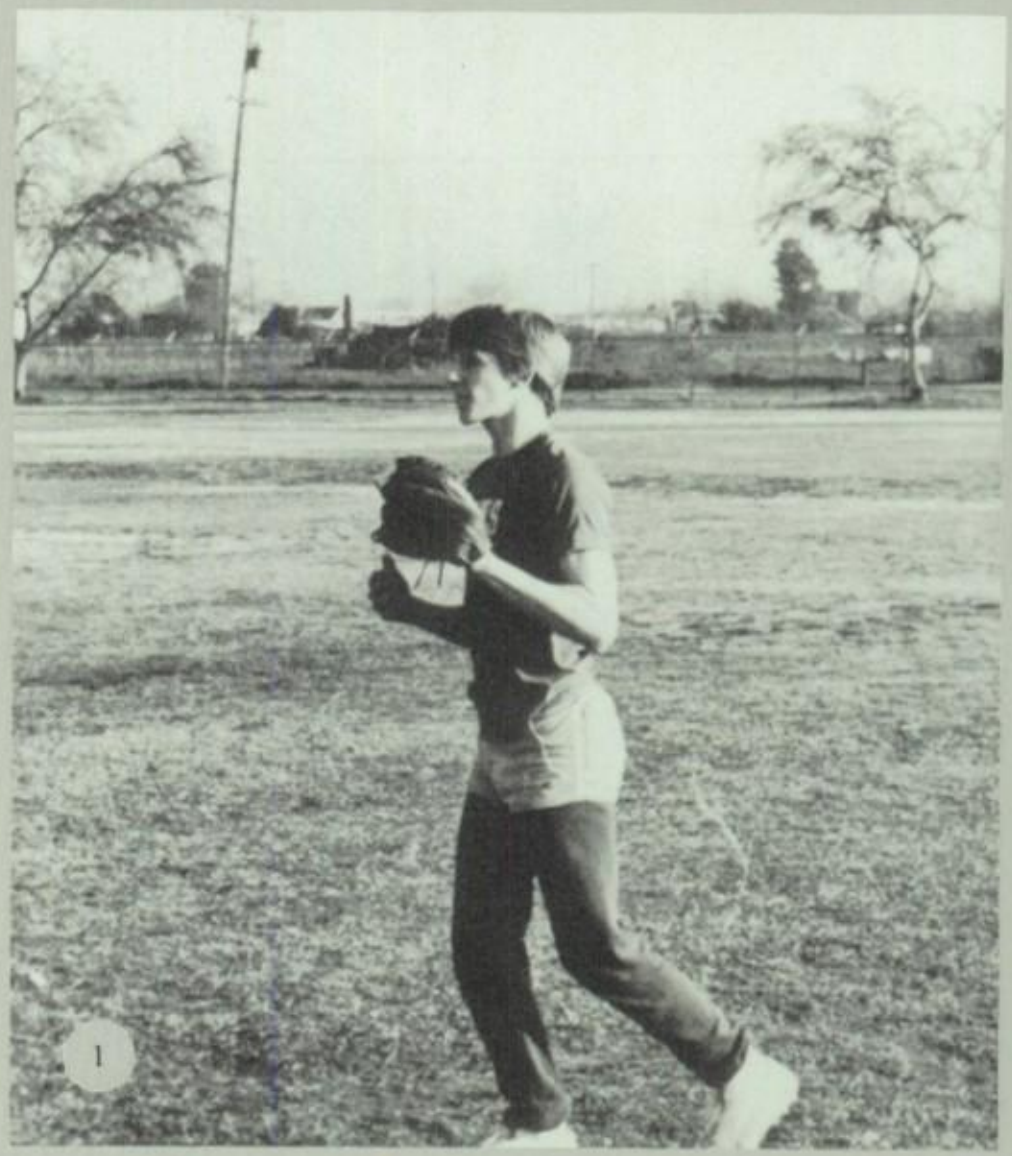
New coach leads inexperienced JV team

During the first few weeks of practice for the Norseman baseball team, only 4 players turned out, with 12 others held up by winter sports.

This year's squad was coached by Mike Sherrod, a new teacher at KHS.

Leading the team were returning sophomores Arno Garcia, Augie Quiroz, Peter Ramirez, Kyle Sedra and Tracy Weathers. Freshmen Jeremy Ramirez and transfer student Terry Hall also contributed to the team's success.



1. Practice is important to have a winning season.
2. Warmups were important before practice.

Few experienced players lead boys' team

This year's tennis squad was treated to newly surfaced courts. According to Coach Richard Grogan, "The courts are a lot safer and the new surface helps to slow down the game."

Returners for the Viking squad were Keith Heyano, Mike Mazanec, Dean Mukai, Darren Peterson, Chris Van Beurden and Eric Van Beurden.

Newcomers that looked promising for the team were Draic McClanahan, Mark Souders and Sean Yarr.

Strong competition for the Vikings this year came from San Joaquin Memorial, Dinuba and Central.

Resurfaced courts provide plus for netters

Thanks to the generosity of the Lions Club and private donations, the tennis teams played on a new surface this year.

Although the girls' team lost six seniors from last year, Coach Kathy Danell believed the team would do well.

All the girls, especially newcomers Jenny Kataoka and Nancy Ramirez, shared a lot of potential and made great progress. Stronger members were Carrie Curley, Susan Richmond, Lori Self and Erin Wilson.

One of Danell's goals was for the girls to enjoy the game of tennis. "It's a wonderful sport," she said.

Swimmers face year without home pool

Due to a faulty pool, the KHS swimmers practiced daily at Fowler High School and swam all meets at the opponent's home pool.

Sam Crandell, in his 25th year as coach of the swim team, felt very strong about working with the capabilities of the '85 squad. 34 people were out for the team, including 10 returning girls and 8 returning boys.

Leading returners are Jeff and Stan Deaver, Scott Erickson, Ryan Huckabay, and Richard Loven for the boys. Paula Cekola, Lisa Lungren, Karin and Laurie Rocker, Lisa Souza, Cindy Vargas, Kathy and Caroline Vargas return for the girls.

Golf team mixture of newcomers, returners

Returning players for the Vikings' golf team were Jeff Bray, Rodney Brockett, Danny Garcia, Bill Hamerstrom, Kevin Otto and Steve Smith.

At the beginning of the season, Coach Mike Newell felt that their goal would be to finish second in league behind San Joaquin Memorial. "Memorial is always strong and Selma should be tough to beat," Newell said.

Freshman newcomers were Bob Aslan, Roger Carender, Kelly Hughes and Grant Young. Newell expected good things from these new players.

1. Key player Kevin Otto tees off.
2. Kelly Hughes is the only girl on the team.

Track team finds success in league meets

With 14 returning members from last year's team, Coach John Swenning Sr. had great expectations for the 1985 season. He was counting on taking the league championship, "if everyone performs as they did last year and we escape the season without injuries."

Sisters Doria and Rochelle Ford lead the inexperienced girls' team, while the boys' team, with many veterans, were led by Jason Brooks, Jose Mendoza, Ron Steele and Jeff Swenning.

Kingsburg's strongest events were the shotput and discus throws with the performance of Swenning and the sprint races by Steele. The Ford girls found success in the half-mile and 880 runs.

New director leads Viking band to success

This year the KHS band performed under the direction of Dale Engstrom, a Kingsburg alumnus. The 55-member band attended many band reviews in which they were judged on parade and half-time routines. Some of the awards won were two first places at the Selma Band Review, first place in half-time and second place in parade at the Pismo Band Review and two second place finishes at the Visalia Band Review. At a competition in Santa Cruz, Kingsburg's percussion section received fourth place out of 35 entries. The band also enjoyed taking part in a Christmas concert held at the Little Theatre.

The band also participated in a Disneyland parade, Kingsburg's annual Swedish Festival, a Tri-City Festival consisting of high school bands from Kingsburg, Dinuba and Reedley, and the C.M.E.A. large group festival.

Jazz band has productive, rewarding year

KHS's new music director Dale Engstrom said that this year's jazz band had a great year.

The band traveled to the Reno jazz festival in addition to the Clovis and Tulare festivals.

Engstrom felt the "students worked well together." Engstrom enjoyed his first year at KHS. For the past three years, he taught at Selma High School and in the Tulare-Visalia area two years before that.

Jazz band also joined the Jazz choir in the recording studio for a cassette they made.

New choir director offers positive attitude

"Enthusiastic and positive," was how director Dale Engstrom described this year's jazz choir.

Jazz choir students competed in Columbia and at the Reno jazz festival. Joe Lizama, the drummer for Johnny Mathis, was the guest at the successful Christmas concert.

Jazz choir students made a recording in a professional studio. The cassette was available to buy and keep.

The group's main fundraisers were bingo, cheese and sausage sales and a dinner and dance.

Choir members sing their way to success

First-year teacher Dale Engstrom felt good and very confident on his first day at KHS. "Pride"as well as "potential," was what he saw on the faces of many students.

Although Engstrom had a positive attitude toward the students, one of his main goals is to get the students to feel good about themselves.

Engstrom had hoped to have a larger group to work with this year. That is another goal he hopes to accomplish in years to come.

Drill, flag adds something extra to band

Being the drill team director was not an easy job, but for newcomer Elaine Mirelez it was an easy task. Mirelez helped the girls on the drill team have fun. Doing a good job and teaching the girls was important for her. Enjoying her work and seeing her girls enjoying it too was far more important than anything else.

Throughout the year, the team traveled to many competitions, including one in Pismo Beach and in Santa Cruz. Drill team did not win awards or ribbons this year, but Mirelez said, "doing your best is far more important."

Sales provide Home Ec. funds for travel

Originally called the Future Homemakers of America, the Kingsburg Home Ec. Club has been around campus for 26 years.

The club offers social opportunities, the opportunity to go to San Fransisco on an overnight trip and to work in the community.

Fundraisers done througout the year were a Christmas cookie sale and a Valentine sucker sale. Adviser Elly Gustafson said, "The money is going toward trips to Santa Cruz, Magic Mountain and Disneyland."

The Art Club has been on campus for seven years since they formed a formal constitution. The club offers social relationship, entertainment, field trips and the opportunity to travel.

The members of the club had many fundraisers. The money from these fundraisers went toward trips to Magic Mountain and Hearst Castle.

The Art Club is a service organization which buys something for the art class. This year they bought an audio-video cart for their adviser, Louise Zimmerman.

Special people live up to CSF standards

The California Scholarship Federation is an organization of very special people. CSF requires that students submit an application and receive satisfactory grades in classes which are among those on the list of required courses.

CSF's main fundraiser was to work in the concession stands at the football and basketball games. The money from this went toward scholarships.

Busy, exciting year for Mu Alpha Theta

Mu Alpha Theta is a National Math Honor Society. In order to join students must obtain a B grade point average.

There were 28 people total in the club. The outstanding students in the club were seniors Karin Rocker and Laurie Rocker, juniors Masato Kimura, Dean Mukai, Ken Matsuoka, and Martie Sommerville. Rene Barefoot was considered an outstanding student for the sophomore class.

In the 84-85 year, Mu Alpha Theta went to many math field day competitions. In March they went to the Fresno State Math Field Day. Then they traveled to the coast to the Cal Poly San Luis Obispo Math Field Day. "In competition, there are several areas in which one is judged on," Adviser Ron Schmid stated. The Leap Frog competition involves two people exchanging papers and solving math problems. Another area one is judged on is called Chalk Talk, where the object is to talk on a specific topic. The last area one is judged on is the Math Bowl, which consist of answering team questions.

KHS's busiest club has successful year

With the help of excellent students and helpful advisers, the Future Farmers of America has had another outstanding year. The club spent the year trying to develop leadership,cooperation and citizenship in its members.

FFA is the busiest organization on campus, participating in many activities such as Greenhand initiation, state convention, and the Fresno Fair.

Important aspects of FFA are to build confidence, leadership and to learn the ability to speak well in front of groups, according to Adviser Charles Parker.

Club offers weekly spiritual inspiration

KHS students who were interested in learning more about the Bible, applying the Bible to their lives, and getting to know God on a personal basis, met at lunch every Thursday to discuss religious issues.

Sam Crandell, the club's adviser, said that the four main purposes of the Bible Club are (1) to create fellowship among Christians, (2) to meet the spiritual needs of the students, (3) to help reach the needs of the community, and (4) to train the students for leadership at higher postitions.

Athletes encounter God through FCA

To present Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord to athletes and coaches is one of the goals of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Adviser Jerry Rosser also hoped to lead students to serve Christ in their relationships and in the fellowship of the church.

Every Friday before school, the "huddle" (an FCA name given to the group) met. Former students and local pastors offered the "huddle" a chance to hear from people who have made religion a part of their lives.

New adviser changes squad's outlook

Under a new adviser, Stacy Tartaglia, the 1984-85 pep squad tried to promote more Viking spirit. The girls worked hard to get crowd participation and set up the Green Wave's return to KHS.

Trying to get the girls motivated and more enthusiastic were some of Tartaglia's goals for the year. Being a former college cheerleader, the adviser tried to push a college level rather than a high school level of performance.

The pep squad is one of the school's oldest and most respected clubs. The girls worked hard and were an inspiration to the student body because in or out of uniform the members of the pep squad represent the spirit of KHS.

1. Adviser Stacy Tartaglia plans pep rally.
2. Pep squad members join together to show their spirit.
3. Seniors Lisa Bankston and Charemon Rocha lead the crowd in a cheer.

MCC brings culture to members

Students involved in the Mexican Culture Club this year learned more about their culture and became aware of the needs of the community.

The club's adviser, Javier Garcia, felt he has an obligation to teach his culture to those who want to learn.

During the Cinco de Mayo celebration, the club members displayed their heritage by participating in cultural dances.

The funds that they raise, including those from Cinco de Mayo lunch, goes toward the scholarship that they give to each senior in the club.

Viking Voice struggles with small staff

The Viking Voice is a publication of the journalism department at KHS. This year's staff struggled at the first of the year because of the inexperience and size of the staff. With only six people to produce four pages, the staff had its problems.

Editor Casandra Lindell noted that Jenise Caetana, Wendy Hopper and Walt Wickham were great assets to the staff this year.

Adviser Kevin Olson felt that, "The paper was still a success."

Yearbook staff meets many challenges

Many hours and many weekends describe this year's yearbook staff. Working hard during class and after school were part of the everyday ordeal.

This year's staff was less experienced than usual, with only four people returning. "The inexperienced staff hasn't hurt the yearbook," said Editor Eileen Apperson. "It has helped because everyone has learned together".

There were two major changes in the making of the yearbook this year. One was the change in companies from Josten's to Herff Jones. The other change was that the staff was trained for a longer period of time.

Under the leadership of Kevin Olson this year's yearbook staff made blank pages into memories to last an entire lifetime.

Dedicated staff succeeds in completing book

Dedication is what every editor hopes their staff possesses because that is what it takes to produce something as special as a yearbook. I was very lucky this year to get such a talented and dedicated staff. It is hard to believe that at the beginning of this year we started with nothing. Then, after all the long hours of hard work during and after school and on the weekends, a book is produced that captures a year-full of memories.

Each person on staff puts a little of themselves into each page and that is what makes each book so special and unique. The following individuals need to be thanked. Wendy Oliver and Katie Vargas were always there to help out. I know that it can be hard for such good friends to work on a project like this together and I'm glad they made it through still friends. Jenise Caetana spent much of her Viking Voice time to help out, especially on copy. Jenise together with Lorraine Avalos, who was also always helpful, particulary writing colorful captions, put together the entire senior section among many other pages. I could always count on Jamie Hooks and Leslie Taylor, who were always willing to do extra work on top of their own. Business manager Linda DiGiorno took care of money matters and also helped out other staff members whenever she was needed. Cynthia Bastress, Dinohra Medina and Erin Wilson did their best to help out.

Sharon McIntyre was always one step ahead when handling photo assignments. Sometimes I don't know how we would have made it through a deadline without her. One of the few returners, John Mirelez, brought experience that was needed, and Scott Wright was also a great asset to the staff. Joe Moffitt and Dale Prinz, along with being helpful photographers, always kept us smiling around deadline time. It was well needed and appreciated. Together we made it!

Other thanks go to Tom Larson who helped us through our first year with a new company, Herff Jones. We also thank the advertisers for being so supportive every year. The faculty for being understanding and letting staff members out of class to work on deadlines. Thanks to Editor Casandra Lindell and the rest of the Viking Voice staff for their help. A most special thanks goes to our adviser, Kevin Olson, who was always supportive of the things that I wanted to do differently and for, most of all, being a friend.

This year has been very special to me. I have made many friends from the staff and the memories made in room 25 will last a long time. I hope this yearbook will bring back all the special moments of the '84-'85 school year to each of you and I wish the best to the senior class of 1985.

Eileen Apperson

Kimmy,
Youve been a really special friend to me. Weve had some hard times, but at least we finished out on a good note. I never took the time to apologize for the fight we got into this year. So I'm doing it now. You showed me just how immature a person can be. Me that is. Thanx for the hair cut and just for being you.

Love,
René
Barefoot

P.S. Be proud of who you are. Youre a very special person.

+Kim+
Well we made it
Beleive it or not!
well sis thanks for everything. CANT WAIT till tonight. Stride for a good future. Love ya.

-Kimberly-

You're one crazy girl, but fun to be with, I'll always remember our great horseback riding day. Remember when we cross the great river, or when Mrs. G. kick us out of Royal oaks and then chased after us. and we ran the horses like "hell" or just the times we went just to go swimming and hopefully to meet our Mr. Right but never did.

But now all we have is memories, because we finally made it. But you'll have to say our memories are "awesome"!
I like to wish you the best in whatever you do, and may you succeed highly in life. Take care of yourself and always look on the bright side of things because there's a good thing to ever bad. oops! Keep in Touch. ok!

Love always
your friend

You're been a good friend all through school. Remember Moriraga's? We're both changed a lot & I think I like us better now. Our memories will be with us forever & I'll always be thinking of you. Don't loose touch & whatever you do, don't let guys bother you. They're not worth the trouble. Have a happy life & keep smilin'. 7-3328
Luv ya always, Suzette
